

STATE OF WASHINGTON
Office of the Governor

Winter 2017

Dear Superintendent,

The College Bound Scholarship (CBS) program encourages Washington students to pursue educational opportunities beyond high school. For many students, signing up for College Bound is the first step in their pathway towards a college education and career readiness. I write you now to congratulate you on the exemplary performance of your district in signing up students for this successful program.

Your district's success places you as one of the top-performing districts in the state. Additionally, by achieving a sign-up rate greater than the state average, these schools in your district have set an example for others to model:

Students in your district have greater opportunities because of your efforts and leadership. Our state's early commitment of financial aid through the College Bound Scholarship provides a means for Washington's students who might not otherwise consider a postsecondary education. I want to commend you, your district team, your partners and the hardworking teachers, counselors, and building staff who contributed to your success.

Your commitment to the College Bound Scholarship program is of great service to the students, parents and community you serve. Your district's public information officer was sent a press release template should you want to highlight your district's exception work.

Very truly yours,

Jay Inslee
Governor
